

It is very clear that Adam Fellegi is a master at the piano. What makes it even more clear - and wonderful - is how skillfully he presents his music. I especially loved being in a small room (not a concert hall) and listening to his rendition of wonderful familiar music. He has a warm respectful way of relating to his audience. I hope he is able to continue his "home concerts." I can just imagine how small children would be enchanted by his warm presence and his music.
